

Examples of Redistricting Practices in Illinois

Example of Cracking – Campaign-Urbana 1991 Redistricting

Not Taking Communities of Interest into Account – Chinatown 2001 Redistricting

Splitting Up Downstate City - 96th State House District – 2011 Redistricting

The new map splits Springfield in three, and connects it with rural areas and Decatur to form the 96th district. Under the new map, Springfield residents cannot hold a single representative accountable, and voters in the rural areas are essentially disenfranchised.

Extending from City of Chicago to Suburban DuPage County 5th Congressional District – 2011 Redistricting

This district contains much of downtown, along with Lincoln Park, and a lot of blue collar areas of the North Side of Chicago. It extends into the DuPage County including the suburbs of Elmhurst and Oak Brook that represent a different constituency.
